Please note:

- National visas are reviewed by immigration officials (cantonal migration office) in Switzerland. This means that all mentioned supporting documents are strongly suggested. Missing documents may delay the visa process.
- If you cannot provide a document, mention the reason for it (explanation in duplicate)
- The cantonal immigration office in Switzerland may contact you if further documentation is needed.
- The Consulate may request a personal interview or additional documents at any time during the visa process
- Once you submitted the application, the Consulate does not have access to your file and, hence, does not know the status of your application
- Once your visa has been approved, you will be informed by the immigration office and a file number will be given to you (in German: ZEMIS, in French: SYMIC, in Italian: SIMIC). Please contact the competent Consulate for further instructions when you have received the file number or a confirmation that your visa has been approved.
